

Dosing Pump Functioning

These dosing pumps suck in defined fluid volume with the back stroke of the displacer and press it into the dosing line with the pressure stroke.

Adjusting the stroke volume and the dosing strokes per time unit can regulate the metering capacity.

Solenoid driven metering pumps are controlled by an electronic circuit comprising of professional PCB & electronic components of proven quality for high reliability to the user.